What: Recruiting and retaining OHS staff in an inflated job market

Who: Helen O'Keefe, Director, HOK Talent Solutions

Details: Like many areas of the current job scene, employers looking for quality OHS professionals are finding themselves in an inflated job market, where there are more roles available than suitable applicants. So what's required to attract and retain OHS talent when good candidates are spoilt for choice? What do you need to be doing differently? Some useful advice will be offered by Helen O'Keefe, who runs a leading national health & safety executive search agency.

Helen will talk about the current OHS job market, giving tips for both job seekers and employers looking to recruit. She will also discuss post-pandemic changes in OHS roles and where she sees new trends emerging. There will be opportunities to join the discussion and ask questions.

The presentation will be followed by the 2022 AGM for Financial Members.
