

Central Safety Group Inc. Monthly Event

April 2024

A visual approach to inductions

Book Now

What: A visual approach to inductions

Who: Troy Winn, WHS Manager, Simonds Group

Details: How do you move safety induction online yet keep it alive? Troy Winn will talk about how he met that challenge. His presentation will be based on research he did in the Advanced Practice Stream as part of his postgraduate degree at La Trobe University.

Working in the construction industry, Troy and his safety team were often investing several hours a week delivering safety inductions to site supervisors before they commenced a job. A high turnover of people and projects on sites made this a demanding commitment.

Troy will talk about a project to move this training online, where his role was to produce videos. He will outline the thinking and planning behind it, as well as the particular role of videos in making the induction more engaging and effective.

His presentation will include some of his safety induction videos, along with discussion about the various ideas, steps and lessons that went into making them.
