OHS power & influence

Book Now

What: How do OHS Professionals leverage power and influence tactics?

Who: Rob Dival, National HS&E Manager, K&S Corporation

Details: Occupational Health and Safety Professionals (OHSPs) are critical in providing organisational safety advice and support. However, OHSPs face significant challenges due to a general lack of authority and operational ownership of how work is performed.

Rob Dival will address this dilemma in his lunchtime presentation to Central Safety Group on 13 May. He will discuss how OHSPs need to leverage power (based on the perceived values of an intended target) and influence tactics (the strategic application of power) to achieve their desired goals.

Rob will provide details of his recently completed Masters of OHS scoping review thesis, which sought to provide a comprehensive state of knowledge on how OHSPs perform these important activities.

Rob will also share some of his career experiences in supporting OHS teams to utilise power and influence tactics effectively in the workplace.
